

What Assistance is Available in Utah for Redevelopment of Environmentally-Challenged Sites (Brownfields)?

As a Community why is it important that these sites get Redeveloped?

Please attend the next meeting of the Five County Association of Local Governments on May 12, 2010 in Panguitch, UT to understand why these sites do not need to be an overwhelming challenge. We will also present a roadmap as to how your organization can facilitate reuse of these sites while creating a positive impact to the local tax base. Presenting at the meeting will be the Community Brownfields Foundation, a non-profit organization that is experienced in working with Federal, State and Local Governments to encourage the redevelopment of Brownfields. Representatives from the State of Utah's Voluntary Cleanup & Brownfields Program will be present to answer any questions you might have. Numerous programs are available to assist local governments interested in seeing these environmental challenges put to a higher and better use.
